

THE DAILY BULLETIN.

MONDAY EVE, JULY 21, 1884.

ALL of the space in the Louisville Exposition building has been applied for. The success of the enterprise is considered assured.

ALL the Tammany Democrats, with the exception of Grady and a few of his followers, agree that the organization will support the National ticket.

The report of the appearance of cholera in New York has been contradicted after an investigation of the cases. It is said to be children's summer complaint and is confined to a single family.

PROFESSOR PICKETT, Superintendent of Public Instruction, reports the census of white school children for the year ending June, 1884, gives 514,083; colored school children for the same period, 97,708, or a total number of 611,701. The white children over last year have increased 13,259, and the colored children 5,238, making a total increase of 18,497.

No matter if the cholera is three thousand miles away working death, consternation and alarm, it should cause the people of every city and town in America to see that their sanitary condition is such as to check the spread of contagious diseases. There are fevers as well as other diseases, which are made contagious by their surroundings. A clean home, free from corrupt smells and noxious vapors is generally passed over at such a crisis.

The following is from the Courier Journal: The Boston Pilot, the well-known Catholic organ, which opposed Cleveland's nomination, say now: "We opposed the nomination of Cleveland, the candidate; we shall faithfully and earnestly work for the election of Cleveland, the Democratic standard-bearer. We say to Mr. Blaine, now that had he been a defender of the rights of naturalized citizens when those citizens were flung into foreign prisons, untried and uncharged, the Pilot would support him to-day, and a million Americans of the Irish race would vote for him in November. But he did not do it, and his pretensions of fair play and friendship now are sheer humbug."

A Very Fine Point.

Drake's Traveler's Magazine.

"Do you know, Miss Smithers," remarked young Featherly, "that there is something very peculiar about your father?"

"Something very peculiar about my father?" repeated Miss Smithers, who loved Featherly passionately, but purely.

"Yes, that young man went on, "very peculiar."

"And what is it, pray?"

"It lies in the fact that although he is not a grandfather he has a grand daughter."

A MYSTERY SOLVED.

An Explanation of How Cleat Comes in Timing and Other Grasses.

MAYVILLE, Ky., July 21, 1884.
El. Bulletin: I am now seventy-eight years of age and ever since my earliest recollection it has been a common saying among farmers that any small grain sown by hand takes a long time in ripening, going from two to three months in an assertion I never believed. This spring I found one field of clover and one of timothy that were as nice fields of their kind, last year, as I have ever seen. This spring they were sown by hand in the same manner as they were of clover and timothy last year. To satisfy myself as to their changing from one thing to another I took my horse and buggy and went to the place where the two fields were situated, then taking a spade I spaded up several bushes in each field, washed them off of water, washed them carefully and made a thorough examination of the roots. I found the chestnut had no connection with the roots of any other grass whatever.

Now the question is, why doesn't the chestnut grow every year as it did this? The seed will remain in the ground for years. I asked the owner how the field that was nearly all chestnut had been cultivated the ten years previous to the time when it was in timothy, the next it was chestnut as at present. Then it was broken up and a crop of potatoes raised on it; the next two years it was potato corn the next year in wheat and the spring following in timothy. The chestnut had been growing for two years. He has raised five crops of timothy, which makes nine years the chestnut seed had been in the ground. The reader would naturally ask why it did not grow before. The reason is that last year the field was sown by hand and the timothy had the clover stabbled or the timothy stabbled there as before there would have been a sufficient growth to shade the ground and kept it cool it would have had no chance to germinate. The seed of chestnut is now as hard to eat as a piece of hickory wood.

For that reason it only grows when other crops are killed out by heat or cold as say by frost or the gorm or several degrees over it can be easily distinguished without the use of a microscope. If you have it on your land there is but one way to get rid of it, that is to burn your land to crisps as soon as you plow it. Many say this can't be any difference between a hard grain and a soft grain of grass or chestnut. Chestnut is much larger than either of the two grasses named and has a beard on every one, unless broken off by threshing or other handling. After reading this there will be no excuse for knowing about your grass seed. It is a pity Wilder ever introduced it in this country.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., July 21.—Some burning stamps set fire to Johnson & Linn's lumber yard in the village of Cedar Springs. A high wind was blowing and little water to be had. Soon the mill, one million feet of lumber and the Grand Rapids & Indiana depot were in flames. At first the fire quickly responded to Grand Rapids engines, but the scarcity of water prevented effective work, and before the fire was checked by a change in the wind all of the business portion of the town, except four buildings, were reduced to ashes, the timber being denuded. ## BASE BALL.

"Our Boys," base ball club, of this city, boarded the steamer Racket last Saturday for Augusta, intending, no doubt, to add another victory to their already long list. But imagine their surprise when the game was over, to learn that the score stood twelve to forty in favor of Augusta. The game opened up with the Eclipse at the bat, after having scored five runs were retired. Our Boys succeeded in getting around twice, and then both sides received a coat of whitewash. Eclipse scored eight in the third inning and Our Boys three, and during the next two innings the Eclipse made sixteen and the Our Boys had some more whitewash, successfully battling "solid wind" in both innings. In the sixth the Eclipse made seven and the Our Boys five, the seventh, Eclipse two, Our Boys, white wash. Both clubs after this made one run each inning. The game was lost for bad playing on the part of the Our Boys. It seemed as if none of them could hold any of the numerous files that were put to them, unless it was Rudy, who played left field.

The ground was exceedingly rough and neither side could do anything with grounders. The Eclipse club will visit Mayville shortly, when "Our Boys" will proceed to do it up nicely for them.

Morris, an ex-Mayvillian, acted as umpire, giving satisfaction to both sides.

Mrs. W. A. Hutchison and daughter, Miss Sophia, are visiting friends and relatives at Portsmouth, Ohio.

Mrs. L. D. Henderson, of the National Bank, Oliver Nelson, of the First National Bank, and Elijah Combs of the Merrimac Leaf tobacco and Grain Depot and Mayville Coal Elevators have just returned from attending the Baptist Association at Manchester.

The Ripley (O.) Budget says: We note with interest the statement of J. D. Kelsoe announced as a candidate for Congress. He is a young man of sterling worth, who located in the city of Mayville a few years ago entering business life without capital, and realized in no time that the road to success is not strewn with roses, but by indomitable energy and perseverance he established himself on a solid basis and stands to-day prominent as a business man of strict integrity, being largely identified with the public enterprises of Mason County. He twice represented it in the State Legislature, and while there was always wide awake to the interest of his constituents. Although he was not born with a silver spoon in his mouth, and has never enjoyed the prestige that wealth gives, yet he has always maintained his integrity as a man. He is one of the people and is acquainted with their interests, and his Democratic friends have no cause to be ashamed of his record.
